Therefore we also, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which so easily ensnares us, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and has sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. For consider Him who endured such hostility from sinners against Himself, lest you become weary and discouraged in your souls. You have not yet yield the precious fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it. Therefore strengthen the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees, and make straight paths for your feet, so that what is lame may not be disabled, but rather be healed. Therefore, my beloved, as you have received what is good, let us continue to strive together without tiring, for in this way we shall share his glory. For you have not yet come to the mountain, that may be touched and that burned with fire, and to darkness and darkness and deep darkness, and the sound of a trumpet and the voice of words, so that those who heard it feared that the word should not be spoken to them anymore. For they could not believe what was commanded. And if so much as a hand touches the mountain, it shall be shaked, and what is shaketh with an arrow. And so terrifying was the sight that
